Annual Benefit Report, 2019

BioGo, GBC

Filed 03/27/2020

Benefit Officer Statement:

2019 was a year of ongoing exploration for markets for P-Kit and our new product, Baby-Kit. By hiring a consultant to explore opportunities, we have found that online sales is the most efficient and financially the best option. We set up a partnership with Creative Resources, who is now packaging and distributing the products via our website.

Our website re-design gives us a more interesting and user-friendly site.

We continue to try to build the business and will continue to do this via social media marketing.

Sandra Skovlund, MD

Founder and CEO, BioGo, GBC

Mission Statement

BioGo, GBC is a biodegradable travel kit company. We create compact, environmentally-friendly kits that provide what travelers need to feel clean anywhere. The kits are assembled locally by adults with disabilities and a portion of each kit sold will be donated to buy surgical equipment. We create jobs locally while helping to provide sustainable health care across the globe.

Governance/Workers

Our business is run by a small volunteer Board of Directors, a business consultant, a social media consultant and the Founder and CEO. We continue to pursue marketing successes and design new products.

The Board of Directors has reviewed and approves this report.

Third Party Standard

We have again chosen GRI Standards as our third party standard. This business establishes global best practices for sustainable reporting. This aligns with our mission.

Progress Report

2019 was a year of exploration and market testing. We have a clear picture of what is our most efficient business model and are hiring appropriate staff with experience in social media marketing to increase our visibility.

Goals for 2020

Given the current pandemic sweeping the country, our products are a promising option for helping to keep the public safe and clean. We are making a big push to get this out to the public to increase their awareness of this availability.
